I will definitely second that; Brian does a great job and is always very humble when he helps and receives praise. Super smart guy that is definitely a great asset to the department. Thanks to Scott as well today for tag teaming with Brian to get me back up and going when not only could I not get email but couldn't access the internet. There are great things that happen when we work together and treat each other with respect and dignity.

Brian,

Thank you for taking a considerable amount of time this afternoon to assist me with my computer issues. I appreciate the extra effort as I know that you are having a busy week and just as easily could have told me to call the help desk without further assistance from you. I'm sure your assistance reduced the amount of time it would have taken for me to try to explain the issues and troubleshoot with COT. Although it is not completely resolved yet at least it is working somewhat for now.

Thanks again!
